"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than kerosene.

Look for this lamp. The Rochester, if the lamp dealer has not the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 3,000 varieties from the largest lamp store in the world.

THE TOPICS OF THE DAY: Men are talking about who shall be the next President, Tariff Reform, &c., but the ladies are talking of the Fine Furniture and how cheap they can buy it from

Geo. W. Robinson, . . . Campton, Ky.

I have just added to my stock of General Merchandise the largest and most complete line of Furniture ever brought to this country, and will make prices as low as can be had at Winchester or Lexington. No room and see goods and get prices before buying elsewhere.

Truly yours, GEO. W. ROBINSON.

"HITCH YO' HOSS OUTSIDE."

A Story Illustrating Why the Negroes Are Voting Democratic.

While being shaved the other day by a colored barber, it seemed to me he was more than usually loquacious. Whether from my hayseddy appearance, he sized me up for what I really was—a country editor from the South—I don't know; but he at once plunged into politics.—He plied question upon question, which, with native courtesy, I answered in monosyllables. Finally he asked me if I could tell him why it was so many of his colored brethren in the South were voting the Democratic ticket; if I knew from personal observation that such was the case, and how they had caught onto the fact that the Republican party was only using the colored man because he had a vote, supplementing his question with the explanation that he was the president of a colored Democratic club in Philadelphia.

I saw that the only chance to save myself from being questioned to death was to do the talking myself; so I answered his questions by telling him a story which Randolph Tucker told on Gen. William Mahone, the Republican leader of Virginia and the colored man's friend.

There was once an old before-the-war negro from Petersburg, Mahone's home, named Alexander Macdonald Taliaferro, called for short Rastus. Taliaferro. The old man was a strong believer in Mars Abe Lincoln, and swore by Mars Billy Mahone, though he had never received his "forty acres and a mule." The old man died and was buried, but the day after he came back to earth and went to his old master to borrow a mule. Astonished, the master asked the old fellow: "Why, Rastus, what are you doing here?" "What's the matter with you that you want a mule?" "This is the old darkey's story."

"Well, Mars George, I'll tell you de t'raf, kose I's sho' you'll understand Rastus as you has always: it is dis yer way: I got dail, an' I walked up de steep road to de great big place of heaben, and afteh I rung de bell knob I sat down, kase I was mighty tired. A big voice from inside said: 'Whose dat out dyah?' Says I: 'Mars Peter, please, sah, hit's me.' 'Whose me?'"

"Doan you know me, Mars Peter? I's Uncle Rastus Taliaferro, and I hopes you is well and all de angels, an' I wants to get in for to see de place whar my ole mistus tole me if I was good when I died I'd be made same like sho, white as de driving snow, an' hab wings like an angel. I's come mighty far and hope I has been good nuff; so please Mars Peter let de ole nigger in."

"What's you from?" says he.

"Petersburg," says he.

"Den you mus' know Billy Mahone," says he.

"I dose; he's a great fren' of de colored people," says he.

"Well, he died dis mornin' an' I suppose he'll be along soon. P'rhaps he'll help you to get in."

"Oh kase he will," says he.

"Is you mounted, Rastus?" says he.

"Mounted?"

"Yes, did you ride on your mule?"

"No, sah; kase I haven't got a mule."

"Well, I t'ink that you can't come in less you's mounted, so good day, Rastus."

I was powerful sorry an' I picked up my hickory an' started down de road, for I was feelin' uncommon sad and down in de mood, when all of a sudden I comes right up against Mars Billy Mahone, walking wid de head high up, same like he used to do in de w'atime, wid his brass spunkin' new uniform of sojers color, a solid gold sword at his side.

"Hello, Rastus," says he, "whar's you gwine to?"

"Mornin', Mars Billy, I's bin to heaben and Mars Peter wouldn't lemme in 'bout I was mounted, so I's gwine back to borrow a mule from Mars George, but mebbe you can help me. You's always been de niggers' fren, and you better turn 'n' back yo'self and get one of dem fine hosses you use to ride nuff 'Petersburg an' you can tek me in as your serbant."

He kinder look thoughtful an' I know'd he propeetin' kase Mars Billy has de recognition of bein' awful cute. Den he smiled and said: "I'll tell you whar, Rastus, we'll fool ole Sent Peter; you get down on your knees an' I'll ride you hoss fashion right in, an' onct we's in we can't be put out."

"Well, I t'ink that was most cunnin' an' I dowsen on my huckers, and Mars Billy he got rite on an' says, 'Gid' up, ole hoss! I tell you, my ole marrow bones did break! But we went rite up to de golden gate, an' my heart was gain'd de flunkerty dunty against my ole ribs, kase I was sho' Mars Billy an' me was gain'd rite in.'"

Rap! Rap! Rap! on the gate.

"Whose dat?"

"Gen. William Mahone, of Furginia."

"Is yer mounted, gin' it?"

"Yes."

"Well, jes' hitch yo' hoss outside an' come right in."

He jes' walked rite in and neva said a word. I mitte know he wouldn't hab humiliated in heaben, an' now I come to think of it, I spec Mars Billy knowed dat, too. Ss, Mars George, you'll len' de ole nigger a mule, and you kin sen' one of de boys up after him when I hitch him outside, an' when I git in I'll tell all de niggers wat I know, an' dey won't vote for de 'Publian ticket no mo."

The first sight of the planet Mars through an observatory telescope is almost terrifying, even for a person of good nerves. It is as if one saw the whole earth, with its icy poles, as a solid globe floating over head. One distinguishes clearly the dark blue seas and the brilliant, many hued dry land—and on this dry beds of a multitude of lakes, bays, gulfs, streams and canals.

Among the great men of the world blue eyes always predominated. Socrates, Locke, Shakespeare, Bacon, Milton, Goethe, Franklin, Napoleon, and Renan all had blue eyes. The eyes of Bismarck, Gladstone, Huxley, Virchow are also of this color, and all the presidents of the United States except General Harrison enjoyed the same cerulean color as to their optics.

The Vienna Academy of Sciences is about to publish the Etruscan ritual book which was discovered in the wrappings of a mummy last year by Prof. Krall. This book is the only survivor of the famous Etruscan literature of divination and ritual of which we hear so much in the Latin classics, especially in Cicero and Livy.

Referring to the finds or remains of extinct animals, none is more curious than that of finding the antlers and bones of an elk, 108 feet below the surface, in a shaft that was being sunk on a ledge near New Bridge, Ore., this season. They were found imbedded in a stratum of gravel.

Brazil nuts are the seeds that lie in large spherical pods, each of which contains from sixteen to twenty-four nuts. Once they have been taken out of the pod it is an utter impossibility to fit them in again, nature has packed them so tightly.

William L. Loosen, a Berkes county (Pa.) shoemaker, has just completed a pair of high topped boots for himself that were made entirely from hog skin. This peculiar leather is so tough that it can scarcely be cut with a knife.

Without opening a single additional seam, there is probably enough coal in view in New South Wales to enable 10,000,000 tons to be put out annually for several years to come. This amount is more than double the present production.

Tipperusalem is the name of a town in Oklahoma. Tipperusalem was the happy compromise between the promoter who wanted to name the place Tipperary and another who desired to call it Jerusalem.

The presidential electors met at Frankfort last week and cast their vote for the Democratic ticket.—They elected Capt. F. C. Biddle, of Bourbon county, to take the official vote of the state to Washington.

Over seven hundred telegraph operators on Western railroads are out on a strike. They want better pay and better hours for work, and the railroads refused to have anything to do with them.

It is a singular coincidence that the United States collectors of internal revenue at Ogden, Utah, and Lincoln, Neb., are both from Farmington, Maine, and both named Norton.

The new iron monuments being placed on the boundary line between Arizona and New Mexico are seven feet in height and weigh about 800 pounds. They are laid five miles apart.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT

Of Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics.

FRANKFORT, KY., Dec. 5, 1892.—Since my report in October our state has been blessed with fine rains, which were very much wanted for the growing wheat crop, and for stock water, and in many places for drinking water. There is a marked difference in the appearance of the wheat fields. Some of the fields which were sown in September, the wheat did not come up until after the rains, ten days ago. There has been fully as there was in 1891, although the price has ruled very low all through the season. The supply seems to be greater than the demand. The remedy will have to be—as it has been in the planting of cotton—a reduction in the acreage and the production brought down to a nominal demand. The per cent, as to the number of acres sown this year as compared to last year is 90.

Corn.—The crop is being cribbed, and the yield is hardly coming up to expectation—the quality and quantity hardly so good as last year, there being a great deal of light, chaffy corn. The crop has had much to contend with from the commencement of the season. The injurious factors were first a cold, wet spring, then a very bad "stand," and next, the hot, dry winds in June, and lastly, the long and continued drought. The report of the agricultural department, from the statistics of October and November, place the average yield of corn in the United States at 24.04 bushels per acre. The average yield in Kentucky is 26 bushels per acre. The German government is making experiments with our corn, and considering its adoption as a food for the German army. If it should be adopted as an army food, our exports of corn will rapidly surpass those of wheat, and the raising of corn will, therefore, become more profitable than that of wheat.

Tobacco.—In answer to questions sent out to our correspondents last month, it is found that the average price of tobacco has advanced, and is now ruling at 8 1/2¢. The yield, estimated by the same correspondents, is placed at 88% as compared to last year.

Cattle.—The number of cattle being fed as compared with 1891 is 85%. The condition is also not so good, and is estimated at 91%. The secretary of agriculture reports that the cattle disease known as pleuro pneumonia has disappeared, and that this is the only country in the world where the disease, having once gained a foothold, has been entirely eradicated.

Hogs.—The number of hogs fed as compared with 1891 is 88%, and the condition is 96%.

Irish Potatoes.—The yield of this crop is not so good as last year, and the average yield per acre is placed at 67 bushels. The average market price is 55¢ per bushel.

Sweet Potatoes.—The yield is about the same as last year, and is estimated at 69 bushels per acre, while the price is 65¢ per bushel.

Hay.—The yield in hay has been fair this season, and the price is slightly above ordinary years, being $9.50 per ton. This is probably owing to a scarcity of fall grass, which is reported from many of the correspondents. Respectfully,

NICHOLAS McDOWELL, Commissioner.

Stanton P. Allen, the author of the new war book, "Down in Dixie," just issued, was a private in a cavalry regiment during the late war, after that a newspaper man, and has now entered the ministry and is doing missionary work in a secluded corner of the Adirondacs.

An essay written by Robespierre, in a competition for a prize in 1785, has just been discovered in manuscript at a paper mill. The subject is "Crime."

La Grange-Turner Wedding.

An interesting marriage of a well known Paris lady to Kentucky gentleman of high standing and family occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob La Grange, on West Court street. One hundred invitations had been issued and the house was filled with guests when Clarence Reid Turner and his bride, Miss Josephine La Grange, appeared beneath the myrtle canopy to be united as husband and wife. Rev. Charles B. Taylor, of the Methodist church, stood before the young people and in beautiful sentences exercised his lawful functionary privilege in putting asunder all earthly conditions that could disturb the happiness of two happy hearts, and sealed the bond of matrimony in solemn covenant. The bride was prettily dressed in a white satin costume, with square neck and elbow sleeves and exquisitely adorned with trimmings of pearl. All about the piano and tables were magnificent and valuable presents, some sent by those unable to attend. In the evening a delightful reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. J. Will Miller, on West Court street. About 150 guests had been invited and it was quite a notable assemblage. During the evening a splendid collation of delicious edibles was served, and it was a joyous and festive bridal party entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Turner left on the noon train today for Mt. Sterling, Ky., where they will make their future home.—Paris (Ills.) Gazette.

Here! Just a Minute!

If you want something funny,
Or just a little money,
Or some other things nice
At a very close price,
Then go and see Carr,
And you'll find it right there.
He brought the goods to sell,
And he keeps them at Ezel.
And he will sell as low
As anywhere you go.
Then patronize a home man
With all the trade you can.
Respectfully,
THE LITTLE JEWELER.

is easily earned by any one of either sex in any part of the country, who is willing to work industriously at the employment which we furnish. The labor is light and pleasant, and you run no risk whatever. We fit you out complete, so that you can give the business a trial without expense to yourself. For those willing to do a little work, this is the grandest offer made. You can work all day, or in the evening only. If you are employed, and have a few spare hours at your disposal, utilize them, and add to your income.—our business will not interfere at all. You will be amazed on the start at the rapidity and ease by which you amass dollar upon dollar, day in and day out. Even beginners are successful from the first hour. Any one can run the business—no matter how old or young. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business which we offer. No capital needed. Women are grand workers; nowadays they make as much as men. They should try this business, it is so well adapted to them. Write at once and see for yourself. Address H. ## CINCINNATI'S NEW PAPER.

It Will Be Called The Tribune. Will Sell for Two Cents, and Speak for Southern Interests.

The new morning paper for Cincinnati is a certainty. One of the strongest companies ever organized in Cincinnati for any purpose is back of it. The list of stockholders comprises nearly one hundred of the leading business men of that city. The capital stock is $200,000. Its directors are, Archer Brown, President; Stephen H. Wilder, Treasurer; Albert Lawson, Secretary; James N. Gamble, Aaron A. Ferris, James J. Hooker, Alexander Offner, Albert Erkenbrecher.

The Tribune (which is to be the name of the new paper) will occupy one of the handsome buildings in the city, on Main street, directly opposite the post-office. Hoe & Co. of New York, are working on the finest equipment for it ever ordered from Cincinnati. The Tribune will be entirely free from sensationalism of every kind, and most popular paper in Ohio valley. It will be independent Republican in politics, and will sell for two cents. Albert Lawson, late with the St. Louis Republic, will be The Tribune's managing editor, and Charles H. Scott, late with the Chicago Herald, will be its business manager. The Tribune will make its appearance about the holidays. The owners purpose giving special attention to the industrial and commercial interests of the south, in which the merchants of Cincinnati have a deep interest, notwithstanding the contrary tone of some Cincinnati journals. The price of The Tribune by mail will be 50 cents per month or $6.00 per year.

According to the terms of Jay Gould's will his son George gets $5,000,000 for twelve years' service, and the balance of the estate is divided equally among his six children.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Since the coal mines at the Kansas State penitentiary were opened, 14,971,000 bushels have been taken out, which represents at least three-fourths of a million dollars.

When on a visit to Iowa, Mr. K. Dalton, of Luray, Russell county, Kansas, called at the laboratory of Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, to show them his six-year old boy, whose life had been saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it having cured him of a very severe attack of croup. Mr. Dalton is certain that it saved his boy's life and is enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy. For sale by Rose & Jones.

A severe blizzard was reported in Kansas and Nebraska last week. Railroad trains were blockaded by heavy snow drifts, and traffic was entirely suspended.

The Toledo Weekly Blade.

The most popular and best known weekly newspaper printed in this country is the Toledo Blade. For more than twenty years it has had a circulation of 100,000 to 200,000, going regularly into every state and territory of the Union. From fifteen to twenty-five tons of print paper is consumed in each week's edition, and it is regularly mailed to more than half the postoffices of the United States. It is a peculiar fact that the Blade is the only weekly newspaper published that has regular subscribers in all parts of the United States. It is edited with special reference to the wants of all people in all sections. It is also made to interest every member of the family. Besides all the news of the world, it has serial and short stories, wit and humor, poetry, camp-fire, farm, Sunday school lessons, young folks, poultry, puzzles, household, answers to correspondents, etc. As a special feature for 1893, Mr. Robinson Locke, editor and proprietor of the Blade, has just sailed for Japan, and will contribute a series of illustrated letters on the manners and customs of that peculiar country and its people. These articles will be commenced some time in February or March, and will be worth more to the readers of the Blade many times the subscription price. Every reader of this paper is invited to send for a specimen copy. The publishers of the Blade would be glad to send a specimen copy to every reader in this country. Subscription price of the Blade, one dollar a year. Five dollars in cash will be paid to any person sending in a small club of subscribers. Write for agents' terms, giving particulars. Address "The Blade, Toledo, Ohio." Both THE HERALD and the Blade $1.75 a year.
